Entered at the Postoffice in Tonopah as second-class matter

The Postal Deficit

Congress has been compelled to rush through an emergency appropriation bill carrying $600,000 for the payment of deficiencies in the operation of the postal laws. Universally the need of this emergency appropriation is laid to the law passed by the recent congress, not only requiring the application of the eight hour law to postal employees, but requiring that the eight hours of work must fall within the period of ten consecutive hours. The clerks and carriers in first and second class postoffices have for a good many years been working under the eight hour law, but the eight hours might be at any time within the twenty-four hours of a day, according to the needs of the service. When the eight hours must fall within a period of ten consecutive hours, then the actual effect is to compel the neglect of mails as they come in; for with the best transportation service possible, there is a greater margin than two hours in the actual arrival and departure of mails. And if the time service of a postal clerk expires for the day just as the mail comes in or is partly distributed, and if it is illegal to allow that clerk to keep on with the distribution of newly arrived mail, then the distribution must cease until the next day, or a double shift of clerks employed to cover the temporary need. The result is a deferred delivery and complaints as wide as the union of tardy deliveries of mail and of belated service.

Two alternatives are proposed. An increase of the service, or a return to the eight hour service as it was prior to the new requirement of compelling the eight hours to fall within ten consecutive hours of a given day. This would place the service on the same basis that it has been for years, and there would be no reason for any great complaint on the part of the people. But to increase the service would require an enormous addition to the postal expenditures by providing a force that would not really be needed except for two or three hours in any day.

It is estimated that the emergency appropriation of $600,000 to meet the additional expenditures made necessary by the new law for temporary clerks is only about one-fifth of what would be required if this was made a permanent proposition. That is to say, $3,000,000 a year would be the cost of this new legislation. This law is not worth the cost; but it seems impossible to get congress to amend any legislation of this kind once it has been adopted; and it is very likely that we shall have to bear this additional expense, and increase the number of postal employees, even though they may not be really needed for effective service. But this increased employment will be made necessary simply because congress is too cowardly to repeal its amended eight hour law for fear of the general effect upon the labor lobbies. But since the labor organizations have made no declaration on this matter, it seems as though congress might take a chance for once, and reinstate the old order, under which postal employees were by no means overworked, and $3,000,000 in good money would be saved to the public treasury every year.

Cost of the Balkan War

The Balkan war being practically over, there is a beginning in the reckoning of its cost. The cost is placed at $400,000,000 to the direct participants therein. It is reckoned also that Austria-Hungary has been put to a cost of $8,000,000 in enforcing its policies as to the result of that war. Russian commerce is estimated to have lost $60,000,000, and Russia has also been put to a good many million dollars cost in negotiations and preparation.

According to available statistics Bulgaria lost in the war a total of 30,148 officers and men killed, and 53,500 wounded. The Serbians suffered in like proportion, and the Greeks in a rather heavier ratio. The Montenegrins suffered worst of all, since they had the most unequal and hardest fight in undertaking to capture Scutari. Altogether the losses were probably fully 60,000 men killed and 100,000 wounded. It is a fearful reckoning for so short a war, but the intensity of that war made up in a way for its brevity.

Roosevelt sued for $10,000 and was satisfied with a six cent verdict. Wildes is suing the Bonanza for $30,000, and now we wonder if he will be satisfied with 30 cents.

From the viewpoint of the ordinary voter it would appear that Senators Newlands and Pittman are doing a whole lot of explaining as to their tariff views.

The editor of the Ely Record, during his recent visit to Tonopah, declared that he was not favorably impressed with our streets. Neither are we.

Isaac McConnell, well known in Goldfield since the early days of the camp, and an old time resident of Virginia City and Carson, died suddenly on Tuesday at his home at Lida. News of his demise reached Sheriff Ingalls this morning.

He replied: "If there is such a rumor in existence it is wholly without foundation and absolutely false, as far as I know. If there be such a petition it is without the knowledge or consent of the attorney general's office. Personally, if the position were tendered me I would absolutely refuse it."

DANGER FROM PNEUMONIA

Lessened by Healthy Conditions.

At this season pneumonia is prevalent in many localities. Every year during the cold, damp weather this dread disease claims its victims by the hundreds.

The best possible preventive of pneumonia is to keep the system in a strong healthy condition and not allow one's vital resistance to become lowered, and if perchance the system should become run down or a chronic cough or cold develop which is hard to cure, take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil.

Mrs. Ellen Dytie of Lima, Ohio, says: "I was weak, nervous and run down, and pronounced by doctors to have a serious lung trouble. I was despaired by all, but I read in the newspapers what Vinol had done for others and decided to try it. I took six bottles of Vinol and am now in perfect health and never felt better in my life. I weighed 168 pounds when I began taking Vinol. I weighed last week 140 pounds."
